February 2011
"God Help Me"
sermon series

New Life Family,

As we enter the month of February, I am reminded of the work that lies ahead of us. This month our sermon series is called "God Help Me!" The focus is on family and raising children. When we think of the insurmountable odds stacked up against our children and the institution of family, we do need to cry out, "Help!"

You've heard me say that number "11" represents chaos and disorder. Although that does not offer us much hope for the year 2011, we can use this as a challenge to look to God for help. The words chaos and disorder do not determine our future; we can refuse to settle for the chaos this world calls us to and choose to trust God. Let's make a deliberate decision to bring our finances and our families into order beginning this moment.

Making a decision involves change and investment. It's going to take work to "train up a child... (Proverbs 22:6) Training has the idea of a parent investing wisdom, love and discipline as needed for him or her to be fully committed to God.

Joshua 24:15 says: "...choose for yourselves this day whom you will serve...As for me and my house we will serve the Lord." Joshua did not say this as a passive statement but as a powerful declaration of his belief in God. Joshua declared these words in his old age, after seeing God keep his promises and knowing God to be, a God of His word. We can also say, "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord." Declare it and believe God for it!

Your pastor and friend,

Pastors Wilfredo & Elizabeth De Jesus
